NORTH TEXAS FAIR.

One of Autumn's Most Delightful Days Greeted the Opening.

The Rush and Hurry of a Throng of Incoming Goods and Exhibitors Postpone the Formal Opening Until To-Day.

The Races the Feature of The Day—One Hundred Racers, Trotters and Hackers on the Grounds—Horses and Blood Stock Still En Route.

The Mechanical Display the Best in the West—The Main Building a Staircase World of the Industrial Arts.

Yesterday it seemed as if the very elements had joined hands in making the opening of the fair a success. The rains of the past few days, while it deterred merchants and exhibitors from sending in their goods last week, has been most beneficial in laying the dust and clearing off the atmosphere. The tracks as yet are not in good condition, the inner or trotting track being too heavy to be used, but the superintendent had the main track in tolerable fair state, and creditable time was made in the races, everything considered. The opening, taking everything in consideration, was a satisfactory one, the attendance being very fair for the first day, and the sport interesting.

The grounds, under the influence of the bright balmy sun, rapidly dried, and by this morning the track will be all that could be wished for. The prospect for a successful fair and numerous attendance is most encouraging. The visitors in the afternoon increased in numbers. Judging by yesterday, the attendance will rapidly increase, and no doubt, throughout the week, the attendance will average three thousand per day.

Fair Notes.
The "accommodations for the press" have not yet appeared on the horizon. Prof. Lawrence's band discourses fine music at intervals from the music stand.

The police system on the grounds is admirable, under the direction of Marshal Morton.

The traditional riding flying-horses and wheel of fortune are on hand as large as life.

Booth, the pool seller, should enlarge his wagon, or fire out some of those hangers-on in that vehicle.

The grounds yesterday appeared like an immense carpenter shop, the sound of the hammer being heard on every side.

The space surrounding the main hall is dotted over with pavilions of all kinds for the sale of different edibles, etc.

Messrs. Cook & Co., of Kentucky, have a large pen of fine Berkshire pigs, of almost all sizes and ages on exhibition.

Secretary Hereford and his assistants were quite busy yesterday, classifying the different entries and articles for exhibition.

One of the main features of to-day will be the trap shooting at glass balls, which is exciting much interest among our sportsmen.

Directly in front of the grand stand and in the rear of the judge's stand, a ring has been fenced in for the exhibit of all kinds of stock.

The average price of passage to and from the fair grounds is twenty-five cents, although some vehicles charge only fifteen cents.

Several car loads of horses and cattle that arrived quite late in the afternoon had not been unloaded when our reporter left the fair grounds.

We do not wish to find fault, but really some one ought to be at the gate to see to the wants of those who bring stock of various kinds, and tell them where to go.

A good system, and one that prevents disorder and collisions, has been inaugurated in regard to all vehicles. They enter at the main gate and exit at a side gate. This system is strictly adhered to.

The formal opening of the grounds was not declared till near two o'clock. Deputy Sheriff Spencer and posse, though, had no trouble in collecting. Everybody was provided with a ticket or "equivalent."

The Hall.

Entering the main building we discovered that all of the exhibitors had not fully completed their arrangement of goods, though the work was fast progressing, and we judge that to-day everything will be perfected.

The first stand is that of S. Irailson, consisting of a neat and nice display of millinery goods arranged in a very tasty manner.

Next, in the southern portion of the building, is the saddlery and harness, exhibited by Howert n & Co., of Fort Worth, which, though, it was not completed, was a very creditable show.

Just opposite was a like display of the Padgett Bros., which was most thorough throughout, containing all articles appertaining to their line of business.

Then comes the music emporium of the Edwards organ, within which was placed several organs and other musical apparatus.

Following was that of E. F. Redfield & Co., which was being fitted up, having pianos and organs of various make, music racks, etc., on exhibition.

Near the middle of the building was the American Sewing Machine company, which had upon exhibit machines of their make.

The Dallas nursery was well represented by a large display of vegetables, trees, flowers, etc., making a pleasant and good show.

Adjacent is the neat apartment of the Howe Sewing Machine company, adjoining which is the show case of Kuaply & Son, the Dallas Jewellers, who have a good display of silverware.

Back of this comes the great Dallas house of Sanger Bros., in a show of carpets, clothing and furnishing goods. This firm, like others, have not yet completed their arrangements, which, when perfected, will include boots, shoes, etc. Near this, and the first stand to the right as you enter the hall, is the display of E. M. Kahn & Bro., the famous Elm street clothiers. Like everything they undertake, the Messrs. Kahn have a most excellent exhibit of everything in the clothing and furnishing line. The different suits of the latest imported goods and styles show to a nice advantage.

Mounting the stairs to the grand rounds, we entered the department of fine art. Going to the right, you find specimens of architectural drawings, consisting of private and public buildings, which are neatly executed. Near by are a collection of pictures, forming a most attractive group. First among which is an old English scene, "The Return from the Hunt," executed by Mrs. Annie Jenkins, worked by the hand upon canvass, being the finest specimen of needle work the reporter ever saw. The entire picture is most life like and done to perfection. It is very large.

"Clinging to the Cross" is the work of a fourteen year old miss, which reflects great credit upon the artist, for it is finished in a style that shows a gifted hand performed the task.

"Hagar in the Wilderness," portraying her dying child while she is kneeling in prayer, is a picture of merit, while the remainder are all very good.

The department of textile fabrics, consisted of various articles too numerous to mention in detail, and the work was such as clearly indicated the delicateness and superiority of the feminine hand.

The photographic display of Messrs. Downing and Freeman was splendid, showing all the styles of pictures pertaining to that art. Near the door by which we entered and the last of the exhibits in the rotunda, were three good sized oil paintings, a river scene, landing at church, and tempest tossed ship at sea during a storm. On the whole the entire exhibition is well arranged and reflects credit both upon the exhibitors and the fair.

Agricultural and Farm Machinery.
On the outside, and to the left of the gate, is the space occupied by exhibitors of stationary and portable engines, wagons, plows, harvesters and all kinds of farm machinery. The roomy space is almost entirely taken up, and the machinery men are trying themselves, and we venture the assertion that the exposition in this line will surpass anything ever seen in Texas.

Among those who are already on the grounds, are C. S. Mitchell & Co.'s farm and mill machinery depot, with four portable and one upright stationary engines, and in the rear a large wooden building is in the course of erection which will be completed to-day. B. F. Avery & Co., the famous plow men have a showy pagoda and platform in front, which is filled with different patterns of plows. R. V. Tompkins & Co., are busy giving the finishing touches to their platform and pavilion, and their display is an extensive one.

The Kansas wagon company has the beautiful premium wagon that took the Centennial premium, on exhibition on their platform.

O. P. Bowzer & Co.'s combined riding and walking cultivators, Bartlett, Pader & Co., with the Shuster wagon and Hughes' plow, the world-renowned McCormick harvester and binder and prize mower, together with various other displays of this kind all go to make up an exhibition which is one of the most complete of the kind that was ever seen in northern Texas.

Cattle.
One of the most interesting collections on the grounds, especially to the farmers, is the cattle show. As yet there are but a limited number, but letters have been received by the secretary from prominent breeders who have signified their intention of being present with their herds and are en route.

Notable among these animals is the famous Hereford breed, owned by Mr. W. Powell, consisting of fifteen splendid young bulls, which are very fine specimens, ranging from four months to two years, in age. This class of bulls have proved fine breeders of beef cattle in Colorado and also in Texas. The head of the herd is the magnificent two-year old bull, sired by imported Challenger, No. 3493, English Herd Book. This bull, at four years of age, weighed 2988 pounds.

N. L. Cook & Co., have a fine lot of Kentucky short horns, from the blue grass region, consisting of twelve bulls and six heifers, ages ranging from three to twelve months. This stock is in good trim, and are perfect beauties in the way of cattle flesh. Messrs. Cook & Co. also have a fine lot of southdown sheep and fine Berkshire pigs.

The Races.

Only two horses came to the scratch in the running race, Spencer's Conrad and Huggins' John McCoy. Conrad was the favorite in the pools, selling for one-third more than his opponent. In one pool before the race that we noticed Conrad sold for $10 and McCoy for $6. After the first heat, which Conrad won, the betting was about the same. The horses were sent off to a fair start, Conrad quickly jumping to the front. Around the turn and opposite the stables, McCoy gained to within three lengths of his opponent, which he maintained till coming in the lower turn, when Conrad drew away and won the heat in 1:40, which was fast time for the heavy track. The pool selling was lively for the second heat, the backers of McCoy sticking gamely to their choice. A good start was effected, and almost a repetition of the first heat was enacted, except that McCoy finished a couple of lengths behind the distance that he did in the first heat.

Summary.—Sweepstakes for three-year olds, colts and fillies, mile heats, $25 entrance, play or pay. Four or more to enter. Association adds $150. Spencer's Conrad..... 1 1 Huggins' John McCoy..... 2 2 Time 1:39, 1:39 1/2.

THE TROTTER RACE.

There was much interest manifested in the race, the favorite, Gypsy Queen, being a local nag, and sold as first choice in all the pools. Tom Moore, a black gelding, was second choice, the other entries selling in the fields. A scattering start was effected, the favorite leading for a half mile, when Moore gradually drew up and on the quarter turn was but a length behind. This he steadily reduced and collared the Queen near the finish, who only beat him by a head to the score, in 2:51.

The pools in this race sold, Gypsy Queen $10; Moore $4; field $2. After the first heat Gypsy Queen brought $5 to Moore's $2, while the field brought $1. An even start gained for the second heat, the horses trotting side by side till the first quarter, when the Queen drew away some six lengths, which she maintained for the next half mile, when the black gradually closed up, a repetition of the first heat being enacted in the last quarter, with the exception that the favorite passed under the string half a length in advance, winning the heat and race in 2:51, Moore, second; Bois d'Arc, distanced.

Summary.—Trotting, mile heats, two in three, for horses that never beat 3:10, three to enter and two to start, for $100, second to receive $25. Gypsy Queen..... 1 1 Tom Moore..... 2 2 Bois d'Arc..... 3 dist. Time 2:51, 2:51 1/2.

THE PONY RACE.

In the pony race, boy riders, there were three entries. Little Queen, a beautiful little sorrel, was the favorite, and on a start being effected, she ran clean away from the other two, and won the heat and race in good style.

The Stables.

The stables on the east side of the grounds, were an object of interest to the lovers of horse flesh, and many visitors inspected the equine beauties that were in the stalls. The horses now on the grounds number about one hundred, equally divided between trotters and racers, with a good showing of saddle stock. Several stables arrived yesterday from Kansas and Iowa and other points. These, in connection with the horses now on the grounds, guarantee a fine exhibition in both the small and speed rings.

Among the principal stables now on the grounds are those of Mr. Spencer, composed of the well known runners, Cornelia, George Quinine, Conrad, Rayland, Fred. Rice and the pony Dot.

Bachelor's racer's, among whom is Kate, Mollie, Little Queen and Paddy Turner. Barkley & Huggins' fast ones, headed by the veteran Jack Hardy, in company with Belle Barkley, John McCoy and Ella Rowett. Mr. James Bryant, of Corsicana has two good ones, Lone Star and mate. D. S. Warner, of Rockwall, is also on hand, with Shoefly and Morgan. B. L. Burris, with Lady Burgin, Bois d'Arc and three others. Riddell's Choctaw Jack, I. H. Morris' Rafe, Hardman's Nick of the Woods, and Blackwood, both Kentucky horses.

Messrs. Shane, Wiley and Hurd, from McKinney, have a large stable of trotters and pacers. Crutcher brothers have five trotters. In Colonel Hugh's stable are Morgan Scout and Tim. The trotting stables of Messrs. Phillips and Ballard arrived yesterday, and those of Charles Phillips, of Keokuk, Iowa, five trotters, arrived last night. Others are expected and will doubtless arrive to-day. All of these trotters and runners are entered for races during the fair, and these, in connection with the saddle stock, will make full rings, the balance of the week.

Programme.
